COUNTY, BRUNSWICK AND ROSEMONT RESOLVE WATER ISSUE

FREDERICK, MD – The Frederick Board of County Commissioners and officials of the City of Brunswick and Village of Rosemont met in closed session today, and all parties unanimously agreed to move forward with a recommendation to resolve the water supply problems of the Village of Rosemont.

The recommendation called for direct county involvement in a permanent solution to solve the low-pressure problems with the Rosemont water distribution system that have plagued the residents of this municipality for decades. The county, City of Brunswick and Village of Rosemont will pursue agreements and funding from the Maryland Department of the Environment to replace the main water lines which serve the residents of Rosemont.

Board President Blaine Young commented, “The board is extremely pleased that we could come together to help the City of Brunswick and Village of Rosemont resolve this important public health issue that has been going on for years. There will be no cost to the taxpayers, except for staff time. Our role is as a facilitator and regulator.”

Mayor Carroll Jones said, “This is great news for the citizens of Brunswick and Rosemont. The three governmental entities have reached an agreement on a solution to a long-standing issue. We appreciate the efforts of the county commissioners and the Village of Rosemont officials.”

“We are pleased the county has come forward to help resolve this issue between Rosemont and the Village of Rosemont, and look forward to good synergy and a final resolution. This is the last step toward resolving a long-standing problem and will serve our citizens very well. We are grateful for the county’s leadership role in pursuing this solution,” said Rosemont Burgess Del Freeman.
